S. K. Agency, a Customs House Agent (CHA), started their operations initially on a small scale. For the first few years they were preparing their customs clearing documents without the aid of any tools. It was a tedious process and they struggled to cope up with their expanding business needs. At this point in time S. K. Agency decided to automate their process and started looking for a software vendor who could understand their trade and provide a comprehensive solution designed for the unique requirements of their trade. Being a CHA they required a solution that would take care of their entire customs compliance requirement while providing additional tools for customer interaction and reporting. Operational finance was another aspect they wished to automate and control. They approached Softlink with their requirements and found a trusted partner in them who understood the needs of their trade.

The Problem

Mr. Sanjay Kolge, Partner, S. K. Agency says, "Before we bought Softlink products, we were transacting business in a primitive way." S. K. Agency used to prepare the Bills of entry and Shipping bills as well as annexure, manually by filling up the readymade forms by hand or with the help of a typewriter. Moreover they had no access to checklist for verifying the documents before submission. There used to be huge backlogs as it used to take a lot of time for preparing the documents. And then there were many errors and mistakes which would land them in trouble at the time of clearance, at times the matter would go out of hand as customs deemed the errors to be a mis-declaration.

There were also the growing demands of clients and the problem of keeping timelines. S. K. Agency had to face enormous delays in clearances, especially for multiple item Bills of entry with its complicated duty structure calculations. The clients were constantly pressurizing for speed of delivery which put a heavy strain on their resources. There used to be constant complaints from clients on efficiency. It was affecting their credibility, client servicing capabilities and growth. The matter was getting out of hand, when the Partners decided to invest in software which could ease and simplify their operations.

Mr. Sanjay Kolge, Partner,
S. K. Agency

"Softlink products have helped us in reducing our overheads, as we do not have to increase the manpower proportionately to our rapidly growing business. With our existing employees we were able to meet extra workload without any compromise on quality of work. Secondly the quality of output has improved so much that without any further marketing efforts we have been able to generate many new clients"

Mr. Sanjay Kolge comments. "Accounting and documentation deficiencies were eating into our efficiency before we choose Softlink products. The status of any customer's outstanding/receivables were not at finger tips like it is today, nor could we get any idea immediately as to how much a client is valuable in terms of total business. All this has changed since we implemented Visual IMPEX and Visual Accounts."

"Before our firm decided to go for Softlink accounting package, we were doing manual accounting and it used to take lot of time to manually audit the books. I used to have sleepless nights wondering how to resolve the differences in trial balances. It was really a waste of productive time to locate such minor errors which would freeze our further movement."

Mr. Nandu, Manager, Finance, S. K. Agency
